Description

The Cook Islands Trust is one of the world strongest assets protection entity. It is a very distinct entity that separates the settlor and the Trust which disables creditors from enforcing foreign jurisdiction judgement on the assets in the Trust. Although not many of us know much about the Cook Islands, it is widely recognised by many countries. Cook Islands law contains many unique features that make the operation of an asset protection trust administratively easy and it is highly protective.

By using a Cook Islands International Trust, the assets are not only well protected from lawsuits. At the same time, you also enjoy one of the highest levels of privacy.

To summarise, the unique features of Cook Islands' trusts are:

- Foreign judgments are not enforceable against a Cook Islands International Trust if that judgment is not in line with the Cook Islands law;
- There are provisions ensure a trust is not override by rules relating to heirship in the jurisdiction of the settlor.
- A settlor of a trust is able to retain control over the trust.
- Foreign bankruptcy rules are excluded.

- If a transfer of an asset to a trust occurs more than two years before the date a creditor's action took place, it is deemed not fraudulent.
- This is simply the best offshore trust in the world.
